

Traits For Protection Review

Match the animals with the right traits.

They have a shell that works as a protective shield.

They have spines or quills that protect them.

They have smelly urine to scare animals away.

They have long and sharp tusks.

They have antlers on their head.

They have a long and sharp bill, just like a sword.

They have horns on their heads.

They have a long tooth that grows out of their mouth.

Elephant and walrus

Pufferfish, porcupine, & hedgehog

Turtles and snails

Narwhals

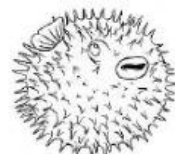

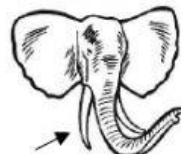

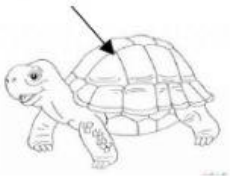

Deer, moose, and elk

Skunks

Bull, rhino, buffalo, ram

Swordfish

Drag the following words under the right picture: shell spines tusks antlers horns

Match the description with right animal.

Clown fish

shoot blood out of their eyes to scare away predators.

Spitting cobra

open their frills to scare away predators.

Horned lizards

are immune to the poison of sea anemone.

Insects and amphibians

protect their babies with ninja moves.

Frilled lizards

shoots venom at the eyes to blind its attacker.

Reticulated glass frogs have intense colors to warn other animals that they are poisonous and toxic.