Composition Writing: Introductions

An introduction is the first sentence or paragraph in a piece of writing. Authors write introductions to "hook" readers so that they would want to read more. An introduction may be a sound (onomatopoeia), question, setting or an interesting fact.

Write an introduction for each of the following topics. The first one is done for you. Remember that all sentences start with a capital letter and ends with an end mark ( . ! ? ).

Topic: An Unexpected Visitor
