Set 19 - Feelings (Pain)

No	word/phrase	meaning
1	Pain	I lifted my head. Sharp pain shot down the back of my neck. The side of my head throbbed with pain. I shut my eyes tight, trying to push away the pain of my throbbing head. I kept my eyes shut. The pain pulsed at my temples. I stared at the ceiling, feeling groggy and weak. I don't know how much time passed. The pain shot up her arm like fire. She cringed. It exploded in her head with a blinding whiteness. It made her dizzy. It made her reel. The pain was like needles that had been dipped in alcohol that had been jammed through her skin, like her arm had been replaced with ice and electricity wired straight into her spine. The agony had faded to a dull throb The pain in my shoulder ramped up all the way to searing, blinding agony faster than I could blink.

Set 20 - Gestures (Various)

No	word/phrase	meaning
1	Shock	The phone dropped out of my hand. It clattered to the floor.
2	Panic	I dove to pick up the receiver, stumbled, and nearly knocked the whole table over
3	Assurance	She smiled at me and squeezed my hand
4	Searching for something or someone	Gwynnie took a few steps into the room. Then she cupped her hands around her mouth and shouted, "Hey, boy—are you down here?"
5	Annoyance	She crossed her arms and stared at me through her round, black-framed eyeglasses, waiting for me to talk. She demanded, frowning at me, hands at her waist. She crossed her arms in front of her. She started up the stairs, her eyes locked on me Jeremy narrowed his eyes at me Mom demanded, eyeing me sharply.
