2. In the evening Jenny's mother made a lot of sandwiches. The teacher cooked a big pizza. The boys bought apples and bananas. Everything was ready for the picnic.
3. On Saturday morning the children came to school. Alan came with his dog, Billy. The children liked the dog very much. Suddenly the children saw a big dark cloud in the sky. "Oh, no! It's going to rain," said Jenny. "We can't have a picnic today," said the teacher. "Miss Wilson, let's go for a picnic, please," the children asked. But the next moment it started to rain.
4. "Let's have a picnic in our classroom!" said Lynn. The children liked the idea very much. And they had a good picnic in the classroom. They played party games and sang their favourite songs. They had a lot of fun.

5. Then the children got hungry. "Where are our sandwiches?" asked the boys. "Oh, no, Billy! Stop!" cried Alan. It was late. The last sandwich was in the dog's mouth. "Don't worry," said Miss Wilson. "There's a big pizza for you all!" the children sat on the floor and ate the pizza. Yummy! "Let's have a classroom picnic in September," asked the children. "That's a good idea!" said the teacher.
