Did you know who made the first...

...hamburger?

In the 19th century, beef from German Hamburg cows was minced and combined with other ingredients to form patties. When German immigrants arrived in the United States, a creative cook put a patty between two slices of bread, and the Hamburg sandwich was born. This later evolved into the hamburger.

...fruit juice?

In the 16th century, lemonade appeared in Italy as an import from the Middle East. Orange juice appeared in the 17th century. In 1869, Thomas Welch developed a method to pasteurise and store grape juice. The juice was boiled at a low temperature to kill bacteria. This method prevented the juice from fermenting into alcohol. The juice can then be kept for a longer period of time.

...ice cream?

Around 500 BC, the Persians served flavoured ice. In about 200 BC, the Chinese ate a milk and rice mixture frozen in snow. Around 37 AD, the Romans collected fresh snow and ate it with fruit. Ice cream recipes first appeared in England in the 18th century.

...pancake and waffle?

The earliest pancake was made by the Romans in the 1st century. By the 15th century, many European countries made their own versions of pancakes. Waffles were developed in France and England around the 13th century.

For each question from 21 to 28, four options are given. One of them is the correct answer. Make your choice (1, 2, 3 or 4) and shade your answer on the Optical-Answer Sheet.

Please note that the passage for Comprehension questions 71 to 80 in Booklet B is on the next page. You may now go on to Booklet B.

Refer to the passage below when you answer questions 71 to 80 in Booklet B.

Ever since he first watched the 1988 Olympics held in Seoul, South Korea, Jake had dreamed of being in the Olympics. For years, he had worked hard to become a good swimmer, training and practising, always getting better. Twenty years later, here he was in Beijing, China, for his Olympic debut, as part of his country's swimming team!	5
The Olympic Stadium was filled with athletes from all over the world, eagerly awaiting the start of the opening parade. Jake and his teammates were just as giddy with anticipation. The atmosphere was electric, and everything seemed perfect. Almost.
The sleeve of Jake's official Olympic jacket were torn. He loved the red, white, and blue jacket with the Olympic rings on the back, but earlier that day, he had ripped it when it got caught in a gate.	10
"Too bad about your jacket," his friend, Ben, commented.
"I hope nobody notices," Jake sighed.
"Someone will," Ben teased.	15
Jake did not respond as he was already feeling sore after having to deal with his lost luggage when they landed at the airport the day before. He could not believe how things were not going his way.
Suddenly, a little girl came up to Jake and pointed at the tear in his sleeve. Jake smiled at her. The little girl started jabbering away in a language he did not understand, all the while pointing at his torn sleeve. Unable to understand a word, Jake turned to his teammates for help but all of them shrugged helplessly. At that moment, she started taking off her own jacket and looked up at Jake.	20
"Oh, I get it. You want to try it on. Here you go!" Jake slipped off the jacket and handed it to her. She took it, bowed, and took off with his jacket!	25
"The little thief!" Ben shouted. Jake gave chase but unlike the little girl, he could not weave in and out of the crowded passageway.
Jake seethed, his eyes blazing. He was at a loss; he needed his jacket for the parade but from the looks of it, he was going to have to go without it.
Twenty minutes later, they were standing with their team, waiting for the parade to start. Ben noticed how worried Jake was and nudged him reassuringly.	30
"It's okay, buddy," he said. "You're with us -- everyone can see that."
Jake sighed. Just then, he felt a tug at the corner of his jersey. He glanced down to see that little girl!
"You!" he burst out, hastily planting his hands firmly on her shoulders. She was not going anywhere! She smiled at him and held up his jacket to him. Jake took it and immediately understood.	35
The long rip in the sleeve was gone! It had been sewn so perfectly that he could not even see the thread. He had to hold it up close to see the stitches. Ben watched this scene with widened eyes, his mouth agape with disbelief. What a turn of events!	40
Soon, the music began, and the parade started. Along the streets of Beijing, thousands of athletes marched together, proudly wearing the colours of their countries. Each was determined to be the best that he or she could be.
There was an extra marcher in the parade on that glorious day - a little girl rode delightedly on the shoulders of an Olympic swimmer named Jake - and then on the shoulders of another named Ben.	45
