The film follows college freshman Cooper (Sam Tsui) as he attempts to win the heart of his teaching assistant, Bianca (Allison Williams). Cooper is so enamored with Bianca that he cannot pay attention in English class during a midterm, he mentally erupts into song, the ballad 'I Want to Bone My TA' and is failing, set to lose his college scholarship if his performance does not improve.

Enter Nate and Lubo, Coopers two roommates, who decide he must seduce his TA once and for all to boost his grade and overcome his insecurities about women. But Cooper ends up falling for his classmate Jackie (Julie Shain) instead, a girl he originally sees as a stepping stone in his path to romance with Bianca.

In an additional twist, Jackie and Bianca are competing against each other in a prestigious essay contest, and Bianca turns into the movies villain when her plans for winning the contest go awry.

Boost = level up
Twist = stage
Awry = in vain

If it weren't for you

Till now, I thought
Maybe we're better alone
But you've shown
I'm not fine on my own
If it weren't for you
'Til now, I thought
Maybe we're better alone
But you've shown
I'm not fine on my own
If it weren't for you

Put the lines in the order you'll hear them

Every road felt blocked off
But you turn that around
Yeah, without you I'm lost
Every door felt locked down
Every path was crossed off
Every window was shut now

If it weren't you, whoa
Yeah, whoa
'Til now, I thought

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Maybe we're better alone
But you've shown
I'm not fine on my own

If it weren't you
'Til now, I thought (It's like half your life's discarded)

Maybe we're better alone

But you've shown (What a shame living guarded)

I'm not fine

On my own (And I don't want to be)

If it weren't you

I'd never had burst through that door
If it weren't you, I'd never Found something worth fighting for
