

How many lessons do you have today?

I have different lessons throughout the day. Let me tell you about the number of lessons I have and how often I have them.

First, on Mondays and Wednesdays, I have English lessons. I really enjoy learning new words, reading stories, and practicing my writing skills. These lessons happen twice a week, so I have English class two times in total.

On Tuesdays and Thursdays, I have math lessons. I like working with numbers, solving problems, and learning new mathematical concepts. Just like English, math lessons also happen twice a week, so I have math class two times.

Additionally, on Tuesdays and Thursdays, I have science lessons. We learn about different topics like plants, animals, and the environment. Science is fascinating, and I enjoy conducting experiments and discovering how things work. So, just like math and English, I have science class twice a week.

On Fridays, I have a variety of subjects. In the morning, I have art class, where we get to be creative and explore different forms of art. After that, I have music class, where we learn to sing, play instruments, and appreciate different types of music. Finally, in the afternoon, I have PE class, where we play games, do exercises, and have fun being active.

So, in total, I have four lessons during the day. English, math, and science lessons occur twice a week, while art, music, and P.E. classes happen once a week on Fridays. Each lesson gives me a chance to learn something new, explore different subjects, and have fun while doing it.
