Must and Mustn't

We use must for obligation, or things you have to do. We use the negative form must not (mustn't) for prohibition, or things you should not do. Like other modals (such as can, may, might and should), must and mustn't have the same form for all persons and are followed by the base form of the main verb.

Obligation	You (1)..... follow the rules.
Prohibition	People (2)..... break the law.
