Ready, shoppers? It's

BLACK FRIDAY!

by
Colin Jones

It's 5 a.m. on Black Friday, the day after Thanksgiving, and the biggest shopping weekend of the year. I'm standing outside a big New York store with a crowd of shoppers. They're waiting for the store to open. This is what three people say about their Black Friday plans.

"I'm going to buy a TV," says Carl, "And I want a shirt, too. I can't buy many things because I don't have a lot of money. But I wait for the sales so I can buy things cheaper. I'm very careful, and I only pay with money. I don't take my credit card. That way, I can't waste money."

Shannon has bigger plans: "I'm going to buy clothes and shoes," she says. "I always spend a lot of money on Black Friday because there are fantastic bargains. I have a really long list. I'm going to buy the cheaper items with money, and then use a credit card for the expensive things. I love sales, so I have to be careful. But in the end, I always buy a lot of things and spend more money than I should!"

Dan is going to buy sneakers and a skateboard. "They're cheaper in the sale, so I save money," he says. "I'd like to buy a tablet, but they're too expensive. Dad lends me money because I'm still at school. I try not to spend it all. It isn't easy!"

More than 183 million Americans are going to shop on Black Friday this year. What are you going to buy?
