Sophie says ...
I love The Lake District. It's in the north of England, and it's the most famous national park in Britain. There are lots of beautiful hills, lakes, woods and rivers. I love to climb the hills and swim in the lakes.

We often go on holiday to the Broads, a national park in the east of England. The Broads is an area of rivers and lakes. There are seven rivers and sixty-three lakes. It's very flat – there aren't any hills. We usually stay in a cottage, and we sometimes hire a boat and go sailing.

I really like the Pembrokeshire Coast National Park, in south-west Wales. The coast is very beautiful, with lots of sandy beaches and tall cliffs. In the summer, I often go to the beach with my friends. I love swimming and surfing.
