What is the most important thing to consider when you look for a job? Is it a high salary, the distance between your home and work, or the work environment? People work for many reasons, but mostly, they work because they need money to get things they want and need. However, you cannot choose a job based only on money. A job is not something you can do for one day and then quit to find another. You should think carefully about what you really enjoy doing. What makes you excited? What kinds of things do you enjoy the most? What are you good at? Try to find something that you can enjoy doing for the rest of your life. When you enjoy your work, not only you will get better at it but your luck, fame, and fortune will come for you.
