insiderbusiness Amazon shared updated return-to-office guidelines with managers this week.

Managers are now allowed to effectively fire employees who fail to comply with Amazon's return-to-office mandate.

Amazon requires most employees to come into the office three times a week.

mnsimhira What is the logic of having people chitchatting all day in office when they can be focused individuals while working from home.

- After looking closely at the image and the text, think about these three questions:
- What is going on in these big companies?
- What do you think employees would think?
- What is your opinion about this topic?

rameynutrition How did we get here?! It used to be 5 days per week no question.... Now this is a big deal!

hans.christoffer.wa Sure, find parking in sodo Seattle, not get mugged or car broken into. Or walk through a cloud of fentanyl smoke passing by all the tents. Happy environment down in sodo. 😊 sesen.tesfay I don't think there will be a lot of firing. Employees might comply for the time being to cut themselves some slack and job hunt in the meantime - and then the turnover rate will increase. So not the best move to go for a power move. It's best to adapt as leaders and roll with the changes instead of resisting.
