Try something new!

Here are some great ideas about things you can do in your free time! They're fun and they're free!

What: Juggling

How: It's easier than you think! You don't need balls to learn this – you can start with supermarket plastic bags. You don't believe me? Go online and search for 'learn how to juggle'. You'll be amazed at how simple the basic movements are. Keep practising and, eventually, you'll be quick enough to throw and catch the bags while they're in the air. Once you've got some confidence, you can juggle balls or rings.

Why: Juggling is an exercise that doesn't feel like an exercise. It's great for your hands, arms and shoulders. But it also exercises your brain. That's because it makes you focus on what you're doing.

What: Blogging

How: Don't worry. You don't need special computer knowledge to start a blog. There's lots of advice online from successful bloggers about how they started. They'll also tell you to blog about something you enjoy and make it interesting for others to read. If people like your blog, they'll want to discuss your opinions with you and they'll leave comments on your blog.

Why: First of all, it's fun! It's creative and it allows you to talk about things that are important to you. It also greatly improves your writing skills, and those skills will stay with you forever. The more you write, the better you will communicate with other people.

What: Music videos

How: You'll need equipment for this. You can use a video camera or the video on your phone. Choose a song that you like and think about the video you can add to it. It could be dancing, or a story. Ask your friends to help you and to appear in the video. You can make costumes and do your hair and make-up, too. Also, think about where you want to film it – it could be at home or somewhere in your town.

Why: Videos are a fantastic way for friends to spend time together and, when you finish, you'll all have something to remember the experience and watch again and again, even when you're a lot older!
