

Color the things that are alive.

Can you find any of these things when you look out your window? What else do you see outside that's alive?