Come and learn at Tutor Place!

Need help with schoolwork? Don't waste any time. Call Tutor Place and let an experienced tutor help you make the great grades you were meant to make.

"I used to have trouble in school. I worked hard, but I couldn't quite make a passing grade. My grades made me feel bad because I thought that I would never succeed. Then, my parents called Tutor Place. I was able to work one-on-one with my personal tutor. My tutor helped me understand the homework. My grades have improved a lot. Now I make straight A's. I feel so smart! Thanks, Tutor Place!"

— Ashleigh Barker, age 12

Community Gardens

Growing a community garden can be a rewarding experience that can benefit people in many ways. On an individual level, gardening helps reduce stress and ease tension. Just being out in the sunshine and digging in dirt can be fun.

A community garden brings a neighborhood together, too. People are often working in the garden at the same time, which builds relationships. People share tools while they share stories, creating a unique community experience.

When it is harvest time, people can share and exchange produce so that everyone has a good variety of food. Every city should have areas blocked off for communities to grow their own vegetables.

19. What is the author trying to persuade the audience? Click the correct choice.

Cities should make more areas for community gardens.

Cities should ask people to grow more community gardens.

People should work more closely in community gardens.
