1	Global warming has been an unusual environmental concern	unusual
2	for many years, but unfortunately, we have been unable to	✓
3	deal with the problem this effectively. As a result, we are
4	destroying our only environment at an alarming speed.
5	Politicians always talk about climate change and promise them
6	to take steps to fight it. But in many cases, economic and financial
7	issues get in the other way. Getting campaign money from big
8	companies is often more than important than addressing
9	environmental problems.
10	Two decades ago, a group of artists have decided to take matters
11	into their own hands. The Artists for Conservation Foundation
12	is a Canadian-based non-profit organisation with over all 500
13	artists from 30 different countries. However in the past years
14	they have been sold artwork valued at 13 million dollars and
15	used the money to support for conservation projects around
16	the world.
17	In addition, they organise exhibitions showing the beauty of
18	nature, display images of least endangered species, and make
19	the public themselves aware of environmental problems in their
20	regular publications.
