Read the following text.

Commodore Yos Sudarso was an Indonesian naval officer who was killed in the battle between the Dutch and Indonesian vessels on January 15, 1962. At the time of his death, Yos Sudarso was deputy chief of the Indonesian Navy.

The battle in which he was killed occurred near Vlakke Hoek, or Etna Bay, in the Arafura sea. Dozens of Indonesian lives were lost and it is commemorated by "Sea Sacrifice Day", and annual nationwide day of Remembrance. Yos Sudarso, along with his commodores were killed, when his ship, the KRI Macan Tutul was gunned down. The ship was made a target deliberately as a part of saving two other ships in the vicinity, KRI Macan Kumbang and KRI Harimau.

Twelve years after his death, Yos Sudarso was officially added to the register of Indonesian heroes for the Revolution. Indonesia issued special postage stamp to commemorate his service to his country. Indonesia's Yos Sudarso island and Yos Sudarso Bay are named in his honor. There is also an Ex-Dutch warship named KRI Yos Sudarso, ship number 353, in honor of him
