A handwriting practice section featuring five sets of curved arrows on a set of four horizontal lines (top, middle, baseline, and descender). The arrows are positioned on the left side of the page, pointing rightwards to indicate the direction of the stroke. The first arrow starts on the top line and curves down to the middle line. The second arrow starts on the middle line and curves down to the baseline. The third arrow starts on the baseline and curves down to the descender line. The fourth and fifth arrows start on the descender line and curve down to the bottom of the page.
