TN2 - Unit 1 - Nonverbal communciation

1. Who is June Galloway? (1 point)
   - The author of a book on English
   - The author of a book on nonverbal communication
   - The author of an article on non-verbal communication
   - The interviewer

2. What did the interviewer imply when she mentioned the fact that English is the world's international language? (1 point)
   - She is surprised by the importance of non-verbal communication in June Galloway's book.
   - She expected to read about English in June Galloway's book.
   - She didn't agree with June Galloway about the importance of nonverbal communication.
   - She wanted June Galloway to write about English.

3. Why did June Galloway describe "many of these customs and cultural differences" in her book? (1 point)
   - so that readers find her books useful.
   - so that readers don't wear inappropriate clothes in a different culture.
   - so that readers don't make mistakes when they meet people from different cultures.
   - so that readers don't get their feet injured when they are in a different culture.

4. What is RIGHT about North American handshake? (1 point)
   - They are so firm that sometimes they seem aggressive in other places
   - They are light and unfriendly.
   - The North American handshakes are firm and aggressive.
   - They may sometimes be either firm and aggressive or light and unfriendly.

LIVEWORKSHEETS

5. In which country do people start counting from one to ten by using thumb for one? (1 point)
   - European countries
   - North America
   - China

6. Which means "ten" in China? (1 point)
   - all ten fingers
   - pinkie
   - a fist

7. Which is correct about a gesture with the palm up? (1 point)
   - It means "come here" in southern Europe.
   - It is considered rude in North America.
   - You can use this gesture to say good bye to people in North America.
   - In many Asian countries, it is not advisory to do this gestures.

8. Which is NOT a good piece of advice? (1 point)
   - Don't use the "thumb-up" sign in Australia.
   - Point with the palm up and open in Japan.
   - Don't use the "thumb-up sign" in Middle East.
   - Point with the index finger in Japan.

LIVEWORKSHEETS