LONDON'S FINEST BOOKSHOP

Book stores have suffered a lot on the high street recently, due to the massive growth of online book sellers, such as Amazon. One of the few book stores to survive and, indeed, prosper over the last decade is Daunt Books in London, more commonly known as Daunt's. Read on to find out the secrets of its success.

1 F

There are six stores in the chain, but the original and most famous of them is the main store in Marylebone High Street. Marylebone is an affluent area of inner-city London which is very popular with shoppers. Daunt's is a favourite because of its reputation as 'the most beautiful bookshop in London'.

2 ___

The shop itself is housed in an old antique bookshop, which was built for the purpose in 1912. The shop front is full of character because of its large, historic windows. Inside the store itself, Daunt's maintains its original appearance. The walls are lined with wooden bookshelves, which extend right to the back of the long, narrow shop. There is a second level upstairs reached by a wooden staircase, and another staircase leads downstairs to the basement. The shop has a stained-glass window and a number of beautiful skylights in the ceiling which bathe both books and customers in natural light.

3 ___

Daunt's started life over 20 years ago when the shop was purchased by former banker James Daunt. At first, the store specialized in travel writing and the books were arranged by country. Later, the owner decided to expand without changing the organization of the store. Today you can still find travel guides and maps of Moscow in the section dedicated to Russia, but you can also find novels and poetry by Russian authors there, too. There are also sections dedicated to more unusual places, such as Ethiopia, Tibet, and the polar regions. At the front of the shop, there is a fantastic selection of newly published fiction and non-fiction, and a superb children's section full of weird and wonderful picture books.

4 ___

The staff at Daunt's have a reputation for being friendly, helpful, and knowledgeable, which makes it difficult for booklovers to stay away. Each customer is greeted when they enter the shop because they have to walk past the service desk. The assistants allow visitors to take their time looking round, yet they are always on hand to give advice when necessary.

Unlike its competitors, Daunt's hasn't invested heavily in technology, because it hasn't needed to. Its website is basic, but charming. It contains a virtual tour of the Marylebone store, which is well worth exploring, and there are also reading lists and 'books of the week'. Daunt's competes on specialism and quality of selection rather than price, offering customers a breath of fresh air when they are looking for a particular book.

b Read the text again and mark the sentences T (true) or F (false).

1 Daunt's is making a profit despite competition from the internet. T
2 The Marylebone High Street branch is the newest store in the chain. ___
3 The building was originally built to be a bookshop. ___
4 Daunt's in Marylebone has been completely renovated. ___
