

53 Present perfect with for, since, etc.

1 for/since

We use the present perfect with for or since to talk about situations that started in the past and continue now:

For and since both answer the question How long?

'How long have you worked here?' 'For five years.'

'How long have you known Sami?' 'Since 2000.'

Use for + a period of time	five minutes, an hour, two weeks, for years, a long time, etc.	Sami's been my best friend for many years.
Use since + an exact time, day, date or event	five o'clock, Monday, March, he left school	Sami's been my best friend since 2000. Sami's been my best friend since we started school.

! X ~~I know Alan for thirty years.~~ ✓ I've known Alan for thirty years.

2 this morning, this week, etc.

We use the present perfect with time expressions (e.g. today, this morning, this week, this year) when the time is still continuing:

Have you seen Jan this morning? (It is still morning.)

I've worked forty hours this week. (The week has not finished.)

Compare the present perfect and past simple

- present perfect:
I've made several phone calls this morning. (It is still morning.)
- past simple:
I made several phone calls this morning.
(It is now afternoon/evening – the morning has finished.)

! After when or what time in questions, we use the past simple not the present perfect:

X ~~When have you bought your car?~~ ✓ When did you buy your car?

X ~~What time have you arrived?~~ ✓ What time did you arrive?
