Last week, I ^{1(w _ _)} about to ^{2(th- - -)} a heap of used notebooks into the wastebin, when I ^{3(h - -)} the idea of using them to ^{4(m - - -)} paper fruit decorative items. First, I ^{5(r- - - - -d)} the plastic covers and the staples from all notebooks. Second, I ^{6(u- - -)} a pair of scissors to ^{7(c- -)} the sheets of paper into small pieces. Next, I ^{8(k- - -)} these in a big saucepan with hot water for 6 hours and then I removed the water and used the blender to make paper dough out of it. After that, I ^{9(a- - - d)} little white glue and ^{10(sh- - - -)} the dough into the form of different fruit. I ^{11(l- - -)} these outdoors until they became dry and hard. Finally, I ^{12(p- - - - -d)} them and ^{13(p - -)} them in a big basket in the kitchen. They ^{14(l - - -)} real and yummy, but we never ^{15(e - -)} them of course!
