

1. The pictures of the disaster on the news [reflected / revived / ingested / defied] terrible memories of storms in the past.
2. Whenever I listen to their music, I can [recapture / retrieve / revive / replay] the excitement of the concert.
3. In addition to our five physical senses, with are born with [ingestio0n / heirloom / submission / intuition], out 6th sense.
4. I forgot his birthday. It completely [jogged / slipped / reminisced / reclaimed] my mind.
5. He [defied / revived / commemorated / estimated] medical science and regained his memory even though doctors said he wouldn't.
6. We kept [vigil / retired / vivid / colourful] at Jack's bedside day and night until he got better.
7. He made [on / into / with / up] an excuse for being late, but nobody believed him.
8. We had to fill in a form to [revive / retire / reform / reclaim] the luggage that went missing on the flight.
9. My mind went [away / like a sieve / blank / blind] for a moment when I looked at the test and I couldn't answer anything.
10. I never remember the names of films because I have a memory [that is blank / like a sieve / that escapes / that retires].
11. This statue was made by a famous sculptor, whose name [defies / escapes / summons / distinguishes] me at the moment.
12. In the football final, the German team was forced into [reversing / flashback / memorabilia / submission] by the superior talent of Argentina.
13. Please show [submission / property / caution / fantasy] and use the underpass to cross the road.
14. The car crash was a [fantastic / traumatic / revived / rejected] experience that game them nightmares.
15. Beatles [memos / reminisces / memories / memorabilia] is available for sale online, but how can you be sure it's authentic?