Choose the correct answers.

U.S. aquacultural production comprises ..... food fish, ornamental fish, baitfish, mollusks, crustaceans, aquatic plants, algae, and some reptiles. ..... are grown in a wide variety of climates. ..... are grown in open freshwater ponds. The United States is one of ..... largest exporters of seafood products. ..... is one of the most important textile fibers in the world. Since 1990, per capita consumption of ..... has held steady. ..... such as Chile and Peru, are dominant suppliers to the U.S. market. ..... in the source of irrigation water play a major role in how vulnerable different crops are to shortfalls in surface water supplies. Crops such as rice, cotton, and ..... depend heavily on off-farm surface water. Farms that use ..... of gravity irrigation are the most able to limit evaporation losses during the drought.

LIVEWORKSHEETS