WEEK 1 - MISS WORLD 2021 TOP 6 QUESTION AND ANSWER

Date:

MC: Okay the all-important final question the last hurdle between the contestants who randomly drawn a number during the night which they will ask their question. Your question is from

Q1: What have we learned from the Covid Pandemic?

CF: Good evening I have learned from the Covid pandemic that we can always try harder to be better to push through and to always try to find a solution because I believe in life it's not about doing but everytime you thank you okay next question guys

Q2: can we ever overcome inequality?

C2: Sorry, could you repeat one more time please?

Q2: Sure, can we ever overcome inequality?

C2: Yes, absolutely, I think overcome inequality by respecting each other between women and women women that is why I think that we can overcome if we keep each other's presence and the way we think and

MC: very nice answer thank question please

Q3: Which human right do you value the most?

C3: can you repeat the question please?

Q3: of course, Which human right do you value the most?

C3: Thank you sir, Human right I value the most is dignity because when we listen to other people's perspective, we're able to communicate with them find their problems and give them solutions, so it's very important that we see everyone as equal even if they live in places or are in situations where they aren't blessed with the basic rights of shelter, food water, and Healthcare. We need to give the gift of dignity and listen and provide solutions and that is what a Miss World does. She helps communities around the world by giving resources and aids, and it would be my highest honor to be your Ambassador for Miss World.

MC: and I will give you credit, she's also a good okay another question please.

Q4: Ok, Your next question is Nelson Mandela said Miss World was the most important event in the world for empowering young people to be of service to their communities. How was Miss World empowered you?

C4: Well, I would say that I have learned a lot by being in Miss World and by being a part of this experience, and from this such experience it has been absolutely incredible I mean I was just a primary school teacher from Northern Ireland, a little country girl and now I'm standing on the MW stage here in front of you. It's absolutely crazy, I think we've women from over the globe. We are different and unique in so many ways from our background, culture, our religion, and it has been so lovely to be able to get the opportunity to listen to one another, share with each other our experiences, and actually learn from each other. So we can work together to achieve a much better outcome. I think I never stop learning, that's something I've definitely learned and that has empowered me.

MC: I think she should be a politician that was very good

Q5: For Poland, what is the most important discovery yet to be discovered? What is the most important discovery that hasn't been discovered yet that could be discovered that you think

C5: The most important discovery, I believe that this is no one, but every day we learn something new. And we all have unique experiences and all of us can learn something from ourselves and to be more offensive and personal. What I've discovered is that it costs us so little to enrich the lives of others. And this is the cause we can
