

Characteristics of plants

Mosts plants have several things in common:

They need to grow.

They are not able to

Their                    have stiff walls made of a tough material called cellulose.

All plants use energy, water and carbon dioxide to make their own
This process is called