Once upon a time in a village, there lived Mak Minah and her three children named Utuh, Ucin, and Diang. Mak Minah loved her children dearly and worked hard for them. Every day, she cooked delicious meals for them.

Unfortunately, her children never helped her. They didn't care for her mother and spent their time only for fun. Even when Mak Minah was sick, her children didn't care for her. Being desperated, Mak Minah went to batu betangkup and told it about her suffer. She couldn't stand her children's behavior anymore, so she asked batu betangkup to eat her. Then, batu betangkup granted her wish.

All day long Utuh, Ucin, and Diang didn't see their mother. It was dusk and Mak Minah wasn't at home. The three siblings searched for their mother everywhere. Later on, they found their mother's hair under batu betangkup. They realized that their mother was inside, so they begged it to let her out. Batu betangkup hesitantly fulfilled their demand, but they successfully convinced it that they would be obedient children. Batu betangkup trusted them and set Mak Minah out.

The three children happily welcomed their mother. As they had promised to batu betangkup, they changed into obedient children. Unfortunately, it didn't last long. They were back to their nature, naughty and disobedient. Batu betangkup was angry with the children as they broke their promise. Finally, batu betangkup ate them and never set them out.
