

TAKE A BATH

My mother always says take a
 My father says... take a
 My sisters say... take a
 My best friend says... take a dude you need to take a
 I don't to get into the tub,
 I don't to scrub scrub scrub
 If I do, I'll clean but then soon
 I'm gonna be dirty

My neighbors say... take a
 My teachers say... take a
 The mailman says ... take a ...
 You've gotta take a

The come to say... take a bath... Take a bath son
 I don't to get into the tub, I don't to scrub a dub dub
 It maybe s but all this dirt you see has a special part of me.
 My tv show was interrupted for a announcement by the of the United States of America

He said we're a national , and he called me out by and he said... take a bath
 I approve this message
 Scrub a dub, Scrub a dub, Scrub a dub
 Houston we have a ... that kid to take a bath

The New York
 July 22, 2016
 ol.CLXIV, No. 61,237
 Single Copy $2.
BATHLESS STREAK CONTINUES NATIONS THREATEN WAR
PRESIDENT CALLS FOR SWIFT ACTION

Washington, DC - IN a press conference last night, President issued a stern warning for the kid known as "the Bathless Boy." He said that we are facing a national emergency, then he called the kid out by name and said "TAKE A BATH!"

It is speculated that the President may initiate a controversial media protocol, whereby all television shows and movies are edited to have their main characters repeatedly saying, "Take a bath." The Bathless Boy is known to watch a lot of television, and experts feel this measure may prove to be effective.

Pundits agree that something must be done, not for the dreadful smell, but for the increasing threat of war. As of Tuesday, a coalition of forty-six nations have formed and pledged serious repercussions if no action is taken.