Advice for travelling

Travelling and holidays are wonderful, but we all know that they can bring some problems. We asked three people for their advice. Let's see what they say ...

Malia: In my opinion, when you visit a city, you should always download a map of the city transport as well as a street map. It's easier to check train and bus times on your phone. Also, make sure you check your hotel has everything you need. I went to a hotel that didn't have any parking last year. The place I parked in was really expensive so next time, I'm going to check that before I book a room.

Damian: Don't spend too much time looking for information about hotels and restaurants, or good places for shopping on the internet before your trip. I think it's better to look for places when you arrive. Last year, I went to Tokyo and I just walked around without a plan. I found some great restaurants and ate some delicious food. Remember to think carefully about what you are going to wear, too. I always take a jacket and a jumper because many places get cold at night, even in the summer.

Suzanna: I really enjoy planning holidays because I don't want to forget important things like my camera or a towel. I think everyone should make a list to help them remember what to take. A few years ago, I went on a walking holiday and I didn't take my boots. I spent two days trying to find some new ones. That wasn't a good way to spend my time.

1. Don't forget to take some warm clothes.
2. Know what you need to take for your holiday.
3. You can find interesting places just by walking around.

4. Technology can be very useful for travelling around a city.
5. Check the information about your hotel carefully before you book.
