

Name:

Class:

Toba told her his feeling and asked her to marry him. The beautiful girl told him that she would only agree to be his wife if he promised to keep the secret of her origin. Toba agreed, then they were married and lived happily in Toba's village.

Toba brought that big fish home right away. When he arrived at home, he placed the fish. Then he went out to look for firewood. However, when he went back home, he did not find the fish. But, how Toba's wife went out from her house. From the distance, she saw her son already reached the hill. She ran to a river. Suddenly the weather was changing. Clouds were covering that area, thunders were crushing and rain was falling down heavily. Toba's wife jumped into the river, then turned into a big fish. The water now greatly overflow.

Samosir cried and ran home right away. When he arrived home, he sadly told his mother that he had been hit by his father. He also told her what his father told him about his mother's origin. His mother was deeply sad on hearing her son's story. Her husband had broken his vow.

One day, Toba was so angry at Samosir, because Samosir had eaten all his lunch. Toba hit his son again and again. "You are a crude boy. You are just an insolent fish descent!", Toba snapped at his son.

One day, Toba went fishing in a river. After a long waiting, he felt something pulling his fishing rod. He pulled it as strong as he could. Apparently, there was a big fish hooked at his fishing hook

Once upon a time in a village in North Sumatera, there was a farmer named Toba. He lived alone in a small house. His parents had passed away. To fulfill his daily needs, Toba got from his rice field and garden. The local population knew him as a kind guy. In addition, he was also known as helping - handed man

Toba's wife asked her son to run to the hill which was not far from their house. Not only that, she also asked him to climb up the highest tree in the hill. Samosir obeyed his mother's command. He ran fast to reach the hill.

When Toba saw the weather was changing, he tried to save his life. Unfortunately, it was all too late. The water came to him, took him away, then he was drowned. No one could see him again. At the moment Toba's place became a large lake. People then called it as TOBA LAKE.

God blessed Toba and his wife a son. They called him Samosir. They loved him very much. As his mother always spoiled him with all that he wanted, Samosir grew to be a bad boy.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

Blank space for writing or drawing.

