

"An Evening of Family and Flavor"

Sarah is in her kitchen preparing dinner for her family. She is excited because it is her favorite meal: spaghetti and meatballs. Her husband, John, is in the living room watching television, while their two children are playing in their room.

Sarah wants everything to be perfect, so she carefully follows her grandmother's recipe. She thinks, "I can make this dish just like grandma did." She takes out her best cooking utensils and sets them on the counter. Her mother gave her these utensils as a wedding gift, and she treasures them.

As Sarah cooks, she can hear her children laughing and playing. It makes her happy to know that they are enjoying themselves. John calls out from the living room, "Do you need any help?" Sarah replies, "No, I can handle it, but thank you!"

The aroma of the food fills the house, and soon everyone is in the kitchen, drawn by the delicious smell. John sets the table, and the children wash their hands and sit down, eager to eat. Sarah is pleased with how everything has turned out.

When the meal is ready, they all sit together at the table. John takes a bite and smiles, "This is delicious! You really can cook like your grandmother." Sarah feels proud and happy that she can provide such a wonderful meal for her family.

The evening is perfect, filled with laughter, conversation, and the joy of being together. Sarah knows that these moments are precious, and she is grateful for her family and the love they share.

1. Answers the questions:

- What is Sarah's favorite meal to prepare?
 - a) Chicken and rice
 - b) Spaghetti and meatballs
 - c) Pizza
 - d) Tacos

- Who gave Sarah the cooking utensils she treasures?
 - a) Her husband
 - b) Her children
 - c) Her mother
 - d) Her grandmother

- What is John doing while Sarah is cooking?
 - a) Helping Sarah in the kitchen
 - b) Watching television in the living room
 - c) Playing with the children
 - d) Setting the table

- How does Sarah feel when she hears her children laughing and playing?
a) Annoyed b) Happy c) Worried d) Indifferent

- What does John say about Sarah's cooking at the end of the meal?
a) "It needs more salt."
b) "This is delicious! You really can cook like your grandmother."
c) "I don't like it."
d) "It's just okay."

Open-ended Questions

- Why do you think Sarah wants everything to be perfect for the dinner she is preparing?

- Describe the atmosphere in the house as the meal is being prepared and eaten. How do the family's interactions contribute to this atmosphere?
