

You will hear a guide at a tourist attraction called Oniton Hall talking to a group of visitors.

Listen and complete the speaking.

Good morning, and welcome to Oniton Hall, one of the largest _____ (1) in the area. My name's Nick, and I'm one of the guides. I'll give you a brief _____ (2) to the estate while you're sitting down, and then we'll walk round.

The estate _____ (3) of the house, gardens, parkland and farm, and it dates back to the fourteenth century. The original house was replaced in the late _____ (4) century, and of course it has had a large number of owners. Almost all of them have left their mark, generally by adding new rooms, like the ballroom and _____ (5), or by demolishing others. The farm looks much as it's always done, although the current owner has done a great deal of work to the flower beds.

In the seventeenth century, the estate was owned by a very wealthy man called Sir Edward Downes. His intention was to escape from the world of politics, after years as an active _____ (6), and to build a new house worthy of his big collection of books, paintings and sculptures. He _____ (7) with his former political allies, and hosted meetings of creative and literary people, like painters and poets. Unusually for his time, he didn't care whether his guests were rich or poor, as long as they had talent.

Big houses like Oniton had _____ (8) of servants until the 1920s or 30s, and we've tried to show what their working lives were like. Photographs of course don't give much of an idea, so instead, as you go round the house, you'll see volunteers dressed up as nineteenth-century servants, going about their work. They'll explain what they're doing, and tell you their recipes, or what tools they're using. We've just introduced this _____ (9) to replace the audio guide we used to have available.

I see there are a number of children here with you today. Well, we have several activities specially for children, like dressing up in the sorts of clothes that children wore in the past, and as it's a fine day, some of you will probably want to play in the _____ (10). Our latest addition is child-sized tractors, that you can drive around the grounds.

We'll also be going into the farm that's part of the estate, where there's plenty to do. Most of the buildings date from the eighteenth century, so you can really step back into an _____ (11).

Until recently, the dairy was where milk from the cows was _____ (12) cheese. It's now the place to go for lunch, or afternoon tea, or just a cup of coffee and a slice of homemade cake.

The big stone building that _____ (13) the farm is the large barn, and in here is our collection of agricultural tools. These were used in the past to _____ (14) the earth, sow seeds, make gates, and much more.

There's a small barn, also made of stone, where you can groom the donkeys and horses, to keep their coats clean. They really seem to enjoy having it done, and children love grooming them.

The horses no longer live in the stables, which instead is the place to go to buy gifts, books, our own jams and pickles, and clothes and blankets _____ (15) from our sheep.

Outside the shed, which is the only brick building, you can climb into a _____ (16) for a lovely, relaxing tour of the park and farm. The carriages are well over a hundred years old.

And finally, the parkland, which was laid out in the eighteenth century, with a lake and trees that are now well _____ (17). You'll see types of cattle and sheep that are hardly ever found on farms these days. We're helping to _____ (18) them, to stop their numbers falling further. OK, well if you'd like to come with me ...
