

The Tortoise and the Hare

Reading

Once upon a time, in a forest, there was a hare who was very proud of how fast he could run. He often bragged to the other animals about his speed and made fun of the tortoise for being so slow.

One day, the hare invited the tortoise to a race to show how fast he is, the tortoise agreed. So, they agreed on a day for the race and all the animals in the forest came to watch.

On the day of the race, the hare and the tortoise stood at the starting line. The signal was given, and the hare zoomed off, quickly leaving the tortoise far behind. "How slow that tortoise is!" think the hare, "Let me take a break and wait for him, I must can win even I do this." so he decided to take a nap under a tree halfway through the race, with the confident that he would win. He thought he had plenty of time to rest before the tortoise could catch up.

Meanwhile, the tortoise kept moving slowly but without stopping. He passed the hare while he was still sleeping. The tortoise continued on, step by step, towards the finish line.

When the hare woke up, he saw the tortoise near the finish line. He jumped up and ran as fast as he could, but it was too late. The tortoise crossed the finish line first and won the race.

The animals in the forest cheered for the tortoise. The hare learned a valuable lesson that day. He realized that being fast isn't everything; sometimes, it's more important to be steady and determined.

How Do You Think?

Rewrite Time!