John was feeling unwell for several days. He had body aches, a runny nose, and a persistent cough. Concerned about his health, he decided to visit the clinic. Upon arriving, John informed the receptionist of his appointment with Dr. Gray.

After a short wait, John was called in to see the doctor. Dr. Gray asked about his symptoms, and John explained how terrible he felt. The doctor took his temperature and confirmed that John had a high fever. Dr. Gray diagnosed him with the flu and prescribed medication to be taken twice daily: once in the morning and once before bed. He reassured John that he should feel better in a few days with proper rest and medication.

John left the clinic feeling relieved, knowing that he was on the path to recovery.
