When I was 16 I wrote a bucket list. This was a list of things that I wanted to do in my lifetime. Some things were easy, some difficult and some near impossible. One of the things on my bucket list was to do a skydive.

Two years ago I spent three months travelling round South America. We visited so many places and it was a great experience. One of the most amazing things we saw was Iguassu Falls. The day after we visited the waterfalls we were relaxing in a hostel in Brazil, having breakfast. My friend then suddenly noticed an advert on the wall saying 'skydive over Iguassu Falls today!' We looked at each other and decided it was time to do something crazy. Today would be the day that we would jump out of a plane.

That afternoon we were picked up and taken to the Skydive Centre. We put on our harnesses and helmets and we were given some instructions. After signing a few papers we were on our way to the plane! There were 14 of us in a very small space as we took off into the air. This is when my heart started to beat very fast and I felt lots of adrenaline.

Suddenly we were 10,000 feet (3,000 metres) above the ground. Luckily, I was strapped to an instructor so I didn't have to worry about anything; I just had to enjoy myself. He asked me if I was ready to fall from the plane ... but before I had time to answer, I felt the wind rushing against my face as we fell to the ground at 200 km an hour! Everything below me looked so small and my breath was literally taken away.

After about 20 seconds of falling, the parachute opened and everything slowed down. We floated peacefully towards earth, leaving the clouds behind us.

This was definitely one of the scariest but most exhilarating experiences of my life. The sensation of falling from so high is amazing and the adrenaline rush is crazy. I would definitely do another skydive if I had the opportunity. I would also love to try other extreme sports such as bungee jumping. I think that everyone should do something that scares them once in a while!

Further to the west, the Grand Canyon is one of the world's most spectacular natural phenomena. It is located in the northern part of the state of Arizona, in the United States of America. Covering one and one quarter million acres, it stretches 277 miles east to west and extends 1 to 18 miles in width. The depth has been measured at one mile, which is deeper than any other canyon in the world. It is easy to see why the Grand Canyon is included as one of the Seven Wonders of the World.

Tourists travel to the canyon began as early as 1890 and increased rapidly after the hotel was built on the South Rim seven years later. In 1919, the Grand Canyon Park was established, with its headquarters on the South Rim of the canyon. Ninety percent of the visitors view the Grand Canyon from the South Rim, which, unlike the North Rim, is opened year round. Visitors can drive around the canyon to the North Rim by using a road that is 214 miles long. They can also cross the canyon over a 21-mile trail on a two-day hike. Most visitors drive along the park roads, stopping at scenic viewing points, and many take walks along the canyon rim or hike along one of the 36 trails. Campers can ride mules down into the canyon, and water enthusiasts rent boats or canoes to use on the Colorado River.

The habitat for wildlife at the Grand Canyon is spectacular. The white-tailed Kebab squirrel and pink Grand Canyon snake are native and exclusive to this area. Some other animals of interest that roam the canyon are elk, deer, mountain lions, and bighorn and pronghorn sheep, while the Colorado River is home to a beaver population. Bird lovers can scan the skies for approximately 300 species of birds. The Grand Canyon is a diverse region of vast proportions with infinite scenes of wild beauty.
