

Love is in the Air

Love is a special feeling that people have for each other. It can be a feeling of care and affection between friends, called friendship. Or it can be a strong desire for someone, often called love.

When people feel love for each other, they might start a relationship. A relationship is a connection between two people. Sometimes, a relationship can become a love affair, which is a romantic relationship.

Not everyone is lucky in love. Some people have loveless lives, meaning they don't experience love. Other people can be insensitive, which means they don't understand or care about other people's feelings.

When people see someone they find attractive, they might fall in love. This means they start to have strong feelings of love for that person. Sometimes, people meet on a blind date, which is a meeting with someone you don't know, hoping to start a relationship.

If two people are perfect for each other, people might say they are a match made in heaven. This means they are very happy together.

After carefully reading the previous reading, answer the questions.

- What are the two main types of love mentioned in the text?
 - a) Friendship and love
 - b) Love affair and hate
 - c) Relationship and family
- What is a relationship?
 - a) A happy place
 - b) A good friend with you
 - c) A connection between two people
- What does the phrase "match made in heaven" mean?
 - a) Means two people are perfect for each other
 - b) That a couple is about to break
 - c) Two people hate each other
- What is the difference between love and affection?
 - a) Love
 - b) Affection is a feeling of care, while love is a stronger emotion, often involving desire and passion.
 - c) Both are related to hate

