Three people talking about the internet

Karen

I think the internet is great. My cousins live in Australia and I really miss them. We use Skype to talk once a week and to tell each other our news. Also, my best friend lives in Germany at the moment because she works there so we talk on the internet nearly every day. It would be very expensive if we talked to each other on the phone but it doesn't cost us anything to talk on the internet.

Peter

The internet is a great way to have fun. I love playing games on my own and with my friends on the computer. I also play games with people that I have not met in real life. Some of them are even in different countries, which is exciting. Sometimes my friends at work think that I should stop playing because games can make you do bad things in real life. However, I'm clever enough to know the difference between games and real life. I wouldn't do anything bad.

Sue

I'm not really interested in playing games on the internet although most of my friends are. For me the best thing about the internet is that I can find information about everything. When my parents were young, they had to go to the library if they wanted to know about something for a project. I can be comfortable in my office and do all my work. Also, I am learning German on the internet. There is a fun website where you learn words by listening to songs in German. It's much better than my boring French classes when I was a student.

Giving food to poor people

Katie Stagliano was only twelve when she thought of a way to help give food to poor people in her city. Katie had been watching a cooking programme with her mum who works as a waitress in a restaurant. On the programme they were making soups out of different kinds of vegetables and they were showing people how to make lots of food cheaply.

Cabbage was one of the vegetables that they used and so Katie started to grow some. She grew a ten-kilo cabbage in her garden. That cabbage was big enough to make food for 275 people at her local soup cafe where people who are hungry can go and get free food.

Katie said, "When I saw how many hungry people had soup from my cabbage I thought that it doesn't have to be difficult or expensive to help people".

Katie adds, "It also gave me the idea for my business, Katie's Gardens, which builds vegetable gardens so that food can be grown and given to the poor. We don't make any money but everyone working with us takes food for free. We grow lots of fruit and vegetables and take them to places all over the city."

Katie says that she wants to ask people to open more of these gardens all over the country. "I want them to be looked after by young people like myself. Then they will understand how important it is to help other people."
