

Writing Imaginary Situations: Second conditional

What is the Second Conditional?

The second conditional is used to talk about hypothetical or imaginary situations that are not real in the present. It is used to talk about things that could happen, but are not actually happening now.

How is the Second Conditional Formed?

The basic structure is:

- If + simple past (for the condition)
- would + base form (for the result)

structure:

If + [subject] + [simple past of the verb] + [complement], [subject] + would + [base form of the verb] + [complement].

example:

If I had a bicycle, I would ride to school every day.

If I were a superhero, I would save the world.
