Grammar

Reported speech for statements

We use reported speech to repeat what someone said before the time of speaking.

To change a sentence to reported speech, we

- use reporting verbs such as say, tell, etc. and change the Present Simple to the Past Simple
Anne said, "The mansion has ten rooms." → Anna said (that) the mansion had ten rooms.

- change can to could

Mike said to me, "I can play the guitar." → Mike told me (that) he could play the guitar.

- change pronouns and possessive adjectives

"I like my new sports car," he said. → He said (that) he liked his new sports car.

CELEBRITY AT A YOUNG AGE

Becoming famous, especially at a young age, can be challenging. It requires hard work, planning and time. As a teenager, you probably know what you're good at. You may already have talents such as singing, acting, sports, art, gaming or modeling that can help you gain recognition. These could help you become famous. Some teenagers, for example, have become famous as vloggers. These young people are very good at creating videos that others enjoy watching on a daily basis. But that's just the start. There are things to consider before you start your journey to becoming a star. It's important to consider if you're willing to put in the effort and if you pursue becoming a celebrity as a career. Keep in mind that attaining fame requires effort, action and time.
