

WHY LOGOS ARE IMPORTANT

Why do you need a logo?

Even if the brand names were not integrated into their design, I'm guessing at least 99.99% of people on the planet could recognize and name the brand each represents. But, hey, if global recognition and world domination in your industry isn't good enough for you, here are a few more reasons:

1

CAPTURE ATTENTION

Customers usually spend less than fifteen seconds deciding what they want to purchase. Businesses need to be able to capture a customer's attention in that time. Picture-based logos tend to be more memorable. Why? Human minds process pictures faster than words because they "read" them as a whole instead of as a sequential pattern.

SHOWS PROFESSIONALISM

There are millions of businesses operating around the world. To stand out from the pack, you need to have a logo. It proves that you are committed to the business by investing the time, money, and energy it takes to create a strong logo.

SENDS A MESSAGE

A logo needs to speak for the personality of the brand. A lawyer won't be taken seriously with a smiling cactus on their logo. However, if a family-owned plant nursery used it instead, that would set it apart from similar businesses while giving the impression that they're unique, playful, and inviting.

4

INSTILLS BRAND LOYALTY

Logos provide a visual shortcut for customers. At a glance, they see a logo and know that, for instance, the cookie they're looking at was made by a reliable business or brand. They then buy that brand regularly to feel like they're not wasting money on something inferior.
