WHY DO HUMANS GET GOOSEBUMPS?

4.1. ____ 4.2. ____

Imagine swimming in a lake on a hot summer day. The water is a quite warm, but the wind is strong and the moment you leave the water you feel chilly and get goosebumps. So you change clothes and move inside to warm up. You make a nice cup of tea, get under a blanket and switch on the radio. Suddenly, you hear a romantic love song. Again, you feel a chill on your back and again, you get goosebumps. Why do such seemingly unrelated events cause the same body reaction? The reason for this is the physiology of emotions.

4.3. ____ 4.4. ____

Goosebumps are a bodily phenomenon inherited from our animal ancestors, which was useful to them, but are not of much help to us. Goosebumps are tiny elevations of the skin that resemble the skin of poultry after the feathers have been plucked. (Therefore we could as well call them "turkeybumps" or "duckbumps".) These bumps are caused by a contraction of miniature muscles that are attached to each hair. The contraction also causes the hair to stand up whenever the body feels cold. In animals with a thick hair coat this rising of hair expands the layer of air that serves as insulation. When the hair layer gets thicker, the body keeps more heat. In people this reaction is useless because we do not have a hair coat, but we get goosebumps anyway.

4.5. ____

In addition to cold, the hair will also stand up in many animals when they are afraid of something - in a cat which is frightened by a dog, for example. The raised hair, together with the arched back, makes the cat appear bigger in an attempt to make the dog back off.

4.6. ____ 4.7. ____

People also tend to experience goosebumps during emotional situations, such as walking down the aisle during their wedding, standing on a podium and listening to a national anthem after winning at sports, or even just watching horror movies on television. Quite often a person may get goosebumps many years after a significant event, just by thinking about the emotions she once experienced, perhaps while thinking about the first date with the love of her life, many years ago.

4.8. _____

The reason for all these responses is a stress hormone called adrenaline. Adrenaline not only caused the contraction of skin muscles but also influences many other body reactions. Other signs of adrenaline release include tears, sweaty palms, trembling hands, an increase in blood pressure, a racing heart or the feeling of 'butterflies' in the stomach.

- A. People get goosebumps although they don't have any use
- B. People get goosebumps when they are nervous or excited
- C. People get goosebumps when their body temperature falls
- D. Goosebumps and other body reactions, like tears or sweat, are caused by adrenaline
- E. When animal hair stands up, the animal feels warmer
- F. People may get goosebumps when they listen to music
- G. People who are very romantic get goosebumps more often than others
- H. When animal hair stands up, the animal looks bigger
- I. People may get goosebumps when they recall situations from past

Create a contemporary, yet natural-looking office. With extra space to store your things and modern lighting transform your office into an ordered and comfortable place work.

Paint the walls in the room a soft pink colour.

Lay laminate flooring throughout the room. On top of this, lay a large sea grass mat to soften the look of the floor and to add texture to the room.

Make the sides of the bookshelves from 18 mm MDF. Paint them to match the walls. Put in three wooden shelves to introduce the natural theme into the room.

MONTIGNAC SLIMMING BOOK

The Montignac Slimming Sensation! To lose 19 Pounds in 2 Weeks!

Nutrition specialist Michel Montignac has discovered that traditional diets and calorie-counting are ineffective and even dangerous. If you eat less, you will lose more weight? NONSENSE! Quite the contrary. Scientific tests prove that if you eat less, it will be more difficult for you to lose your extra fat. It is not the fat and the calories in the food you eat that make you fat, but a specific group of carbohydrates. Montignac calls them „bad” carbohydrates, because they stimulate the body to produce too much insulin, a hormone known as the main cause of too much weight. Normally insulin stores energy, but, if insulin production is too high, this gives you too much energy, which changes into fat on the hips, stomach, bottom and thighs.

„Good” carbohydrates do exactly the opposite: they keep your metabolism in balance, causing you to lose weight. All you have to do is avoid these „bad” carbohydrates and at the same time enjoy the „good” ones three times a day and the pounds will start dropping off you in no time.

You too can lose 10lbs, 20lbs, 40lbs or more! Just eat till you are full three times a day then watch the pounds come off. No pills, no diet, no medication, and no special fitness programme.

Just one warning: the method can be very effective, so be careful not to go too far with it!

To Lose 19 Pounds In 2 Weeks-£19.95.

3.1.

Columbus, the son of a wool merchant and weaver, was born in 1451 in Genoa, Italy, and went to sea at the age of 14. Following a shipwreck off the coast of Portugal in 1470, he swam to the shore and settled in that country. Between 1477 and 1482 Columbus made merchant voyages as far away as Iceland and Guinea. But in 1484, his „Enterprise of the Indies” idea fell on deaf ears when he presented it to King John of Portugal. Shortly afterwards, he moved to Spain, where King Ferdinand and Queen Isabella became more interested in his adventuresome ideas.

3.2.

On August 2, 1492, Columbus set sail in search of the East Indies. The voyage was financed by Ferdinand and Isabella, but the crown had to put up very little money from the treasury. Instead they made the city of Palos pay back a debt to the crown by providing two of the ships, and by getting some financial help from Italy.

Columbus and 90 crewmen boarded the three ships that were to make the first voyage to the New World, the Niña, Pinta, and the flagship, Santa Maria. On October 12, 1492, Columbus first saw the islands of the new world, landing in the Bahamas. Later in the month, he sailed to Cuba, and to Hispaniola (now Haiti). He thought he had reached the East Indies, the islands off Southeast Asia.

Contrary to popular belief, most educated individuals in the 15th century, and especially sailors, already knew that the earth was round. What Columbus didn't realize, however, was just how big a globe it was. He seriously underestimated the size of the planet.

The menu for Spanish seamen consisted of water, vinegar, wine, olive oil, molasses, cheese, honey, raisins, rice, garlic, almonds, sea biscuit, beans, salted and barreled sardines, anchovies, dry cod and pickled or salted meats (beef and pork). Food, mostly boiled, was served in a large wooden bowl shared by all. It consisted of poorly cooked meat with bones in it, which the sailors had to pick with their fingers as they had no forks or spoons. The larger pieces of meat were cut with the knife each sailor carried. Fish was eaten most often. On calm days, the crew finished and then cooked their catch.

3.4.

On Christmas Day, 1492, the Santa Maria sank near the shores of Hispaniola. Columbus departed for Spain on January 16, 1493 on the Niña, arriving there on March 4.

Columbus made three additional voyages to the New World. The second voyage set sail in September, 1493, with 17 ships. During his expeditions, he helped to colonize Hispaniola, and discovered the South American mainland. He did not, however, see mainland North America during any of his voyages. He returned to Spain for the last time on November 7, 1504. He died at Valladolid, Spain, on May 20, 1506, at the age of 55.

There has been a serious disagreement about Columbus' expeditions and whether or not one can „discover” an already inhabited land. The natives of the Bahamas and other islands on his journey were peaceful and friendly. But many of them were later turned into slaves by the Spanish. Also, it is known that the Vikings had explored the North American coast 500 years before Columbus. Nevertheless, Columbus' expedition was unique and important as it resulted in the permanent establishment of European colonies in the New World.
