

1. Why is it important for a process to have both an IP address and a port number to receive messages?

2. How do cookies help maintain state in web interactions, and what are their four main components?

3. What are the three major components of the electronic mail system, and what functions do they serve?