Living and teaching in Ukraine

1

Hi everyone, I'm Amy! I'm an English teacher from New York City, living and teaching in Ukraine at the moment. Travel has always been important to me. I went on my first trip to Europe with my aunt when I was fourteen. Then I moved to Los Angeles, but I didn't like it there. One day I realised that I wanted to live and work in Europe.

I was travelling with my boyfriend at the time. He was offered a job for three months in Kyiv and I went with him. I had no expectations of Ukraine but by the time the three months were over I had fallen completely in love with the café culture, the warm people, and the food of course.

I once bought a big bag of fruit for 6 Euros at the grocery store! And you can find ballet and opera tickets for 10-15 Euros. But, when I was shopping for clothes I realised that they were a bit pricey, so I don't do much shopping here. I live in a one-room apartment with a separate kitchen. I paid 270 Euros ($310) for the rent this month. So all in all, it is not too expensive.

Yes, to live and work in Ukraine you need one. However, it isn't too difficult for Americans to get it in your passport. I got mine after I had arrived here. Americans can visit Ukraine visa-free for 90 days.

Ukrainians can be a bit shy but in general they are friendly and open to foreigners. They also love a good party! In the summer I was visiting a lot of festivals and celebrations over the weekends and I have to say it was fantastic!
