

Narrative Essay: A Time I Felt Disappointed

Last year, I experienced a moment where I _____ disappointed myself. It happened when I was _____ in my school's drama club production as one of the main characters.

On the day of the performance, I was excited _____ nervous at the same time. The play started well but suddenly, in the middle of _____ important scene, I forgot my lines. Despite the panic, I managed to make up my own dialogues.

Although no one noticed my mistake, I felt _____ because many people were involved in the play. I did not want to let down my friends, teachers and the people helping backstage. However, the incident has taught me to embrace mistakes and learn from them.
