

THE TYPICAL FILLING OUT ACTIVITY

Oh, you thought you'd escaped fill-in-the-blank activities?

Think again! Today, we're throwing you right back in – but with a twist of simple past flair. Here's how you'll tackle this “one-of-a-kind” task:

1. Listen to the Song 🎵: Sit back, “enjoy” the song, and tune into every word (or, you know, try to).

2. Fill in the Blanks ✎: On round two, grab a pencil and get serious. Fill in those gaps with the correct words in the simple past verb and the negative form of the tense. (And hey, pencils mean easy fix if things go wrong! 😊)

3. Check Your Answers ✅: Finally, listen a third time to admire your perfect accuracy – or to make those necessary adjustments. 😓

Go on, give it your best shot! Who knew gap-filling could be so thrilling?

PROMISE Laufey

I _____ (make) a promise

To distance myself

_____ (take) a flight, through aurora skies

Honestly, I _____ (think) about

How we _____ (say) goodbye

Just see you very soon

It hurts to be something

It's worse to be nothing with you, mmm

So I _____ (call) you

For sixteen long days

And I should get a cigarette

For so much restraint

No matter how long I resist temptation

THE TYPICAL FILLING OUT ACTIVITY

For so much restraint
No matter how long I resist temptation
I will always lose
It hurts to be something
It's worse to be nothing with you
I've done the math
There's no solution
We'll never last
Why can't I let go of this?
So I _____ (break) my promise
I _____ (call) you last night
I shouldn't have, I wouldn't have
If it _____ (be) for the sight of a boy
Who _____ (look) just like you
Standing out on Melrose Avenue
It hurts to be something
It's worse to be nothing with you, mmm
It hurts to be something
It's worse to be nothing with you

Want to know about Laufey? 🎵

Well, brace yourself for some fun facts!

She's an Icelandic singer and musician who burst onto the scene in the early 2020s with her jazzy pop vibes. Born on April 23, 1999, in Reykjavík (Iceland's capital, not just a cool name), she's got some serious talent in her genes. Her mum is a classical violinist from Guangzhou, and her dad is an Icelandic violin educator. So, you could say music runs in her family!

🌟 If you're curious about her style, get ready for a delightful mix of pop and jazz that'll make you hit repeat, click here in her webpage:

<https://www.laufeymusic.com/>