1.1 Read the text below

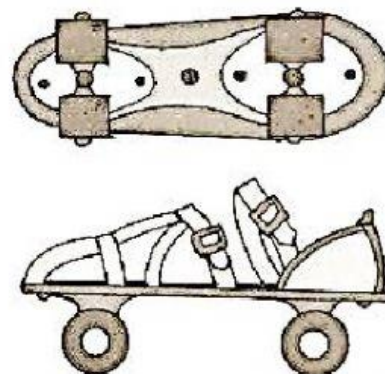

I needed some money to buy a pair of good roller skates as I enjoy roller skating. In fact, I want to be a professional roller skater! So, I asked my mum if she would buy me a pair of roller skates which costs RM120. She wanted me to buy the roller skates myself! But, I didn't know how. So, she told me to help her with a car boot sale and she will pay me RM15 an hour. I agreed as I thought it was a good idea.

My mother had already gathered some items that she wanted to sell at the car boot sale. I was told to put price stickers on these items. The T-shirts were priced at RM10 while the hand towels were at RM2.50. There was even an old oil painting that was priced at RM50. After that, I placed all the items in cardboard boxes.

The next day, we placed all the boxes in Mum's car boot together with a foldable table, a chair, a plastic container and some wet wipes. By the time we reached the venue, there were many people eagerly looking at things on sale. Quickly, we placed some boxes on the table and the rest in the boot. Many people came to our car. They began picking up items and began to haggle for a better price. I was so glad that we placed the price stickers yesterday as there were just too many people to deal with. Mother made sure that we could make some profit so she did not reduce the price much. I had a plastic container to put the money in and each time we had a few notes in the container, I placed them in my pocket.

By noon, I was so tired that I sat on the chair. A woman was interested in the oil painting. She placed the painting on the table to have a closer view. However, she spilled her drink on it. Mum quickly used the wet wipes to clear the spill. The woman apologised and took the oil painting.

By evening, the crowd was getting lesser. Mum and I placed the things into the car and we drove home. I will indeed help out my mum with car boot sales to make some money in the future.
