Smartphone zombie – people using phones while walking down the street

Smartphone zombie or 'Smombie' is a pedestrian who walks slowly without paying attention to their surroundings because they are focused on their smartphone. It turns out to be quite dangerous, even deadly, especially if one tries to take a selfie. The number of victims is growing every year.

To tackle the problem, some cities have decided to take measures to limit the number of accidents: in China, mobile phone users have their own 'phone lanes'. In Honolulu (Hawaii), it is forbidden to use a phone on a pedestrian crossing, and in the Netherlands, there is a city with red and green light strips built into the sidewalk, so people waiting to cross can be safe even if they don't look up.

- 5.1. 'Smombies' are people who _____.
- 5.2. More and more people die while they are trying to _____.
- 5.3. In the Netherlands, people who look down at the pavement will see _____ at pedestrian crossings.
- 5.4. You can't be on your phone on a zebra crossing in _____.
