NEW COMMUNITY

The new community center is about to begin construction. The engineers are going to use eco-friendly materials to reduce environmental impact. The workers are going to start building the foundation next Monday.

However, the project manager believes that the weather will improve by next week, so the team will work longer hours to finish on time. The architects also think the new design will attract many visitors once the building is complete.

To ensure safety, the company is going to install new protective equipment, and the supervisor will review all safety rules before construction begins.
