GRAMMAR

Present Perfect Continuous

The Present Perfect Continuous tense is used to talk about actions that started in the past and are still happening now or have recently stopped but have a connection to the present.

Started taking new medication

Still taking medication

Structure:

Affirmative:

- Subject + have/has + been + verb + -ing

Example: I have been studying English.

Negative:

- Subject + have/has + not + been + verb + -ing

Example: She has not been working lately.

Interrogative:

- Have/Has + subject + been + verb + -ing?

Example: Have you been watching TV?

Using Since and For:

We use since to talk about the starting point of the action, and we use for to mention how long the action has been happening.

- Since shows when the action started (a specific point in time: since 2010, since last Monday).
- For tells how long the action has been happening (a period of time: for 3 hours, for 2 years).

Examples:

1. Affirmative: I have been learning English since 2020.
2. Negative: They have not been playing soccer for two weeks.
3. Interrogative: Has she been working here since last year?
4. Affirmative: We have been living in this city for five months.
