UNIT 5 MAKING MUSIC LESSON 4 STORY 1

The Violinist

- 1 Louis and Hugo were students at the best music school in Paris. Louis played a flute made of silver, and Hugo played the clarinet. One day they saw a young man who was playing an old red violin at the market. His music was beautiful.

- 2 "Come on, Louis," said Hugo. "He's just a street musician."
But Louis walked up to the man. "You're really good. Please, work hard and don't give up."

- 3 Many years passed. Louis and Hugo were now in an orchestra. One night, a new violinist came to play with them. He played beautiful music. "He is the best violinist in Paris," said Hugo. "Where did he come from?"

- 4 Later, Louis walked up to the violinist. "Thank you for playing," Louis said. "Did you study at our music school?"
The man smiled. "No, but let me show you something." He took out an old red violin. Louis looked. "You were the violinist at the market many years ago!" he said.
"You told me to work hard," said the violinist. "Later, I found a teacher. Now everyone wants to hear my music." He smiled at Louis. "Thanks to you."
